Zorba

Zorba is both an early table and processing potato. It is ideal for the French Fry industry because the tubers are big and very long.

The very low Acrylamide results during production make the variety very suitable for off field and long term storage.

Zorba has better than average heat tolerance. It prefers soils which have good water retention but which are also well draining.

Due to the long tuber shape care must be taken when planting especially with cup planters to maintain correct plant density.
